Loudaphone are a Brighton based 4 piece. Their sound is a mix of uplifting, heart tugging melodies and bass lines, combining an often harder indie/rock edge.

They formed in January 2003 and have played many successful gigs in Sussex, London and around Wales (their singer, Andy being Welsh himself) at top venues as The Dublin Castle, Islington Bar Academy, Brighton Pressure Point. They are now gaining a solid fan base and a reputation as a great, energetic live act by Nick Hunt, who has worked with the likes of Placebo and Willard Grant Conspiracy. The band set up their own label, Barefaced Cheek Records, to sell the indie currently from their online shop, the Sparkle Promotions shop on <http://shop.sparklepromotions.com/> and at gigs, but are in talks with several companies for a distribution deal at present. Clips of the songs are available to hear on the band are now back and raring to go. They already have half a dozen tracks ready for their second album and they will be gigging a town near you in the very near future!
